SNAPS for GREENHOUSE FORCING

NEW WINTER FLOWERING SNAPDRAGON

We offer six new varieties of Snapdragon for winter flowering. Most of these we have had an opportunity to observe, and we think they are well worth a trial. Why not try several or all of them? You may find a real profit maker among them, and it helps your returns if you can offer something unusual.

Westover White Fringed. Introduced last year in a limited way, this new sort has created a sensation. The flower has an ethereal arresting quality, and the color is a clear pure white. The plant is of strong, sturdy growth, of medium height, and produces freely.

Tr. Pkt. $2.50. Three for $6.50

Bezdek's White Wonder. Splendid pure white with long flowering spikes on strong wiry stems. An early and continuous winter bloomer that will not shatter. $2.90

Bronze Queen. A seedling that has impressed us very favorably. The color is on attractive bronze several shades lighter than Afterglow, and it has all of the good qualities of its seed parent, Rose Queen. The tip will not snap out, and we recommend it to take the place of Afterglow. Well thought-of by all who tried it last season. $2.00

Embers. Our introduction of last season that has been universally liked. The glowing carmine color is especially striking under artificial light, yet it blends well with practically all flower colors. A profitable variety planted in a limited way to fill out the color selection. $2.00

Peggy Schumann. Soft pink flowers on a large close flowering spike on sturdy stems. Will not shatter, and the introducer believes it will become a standard variety along with his other introduction Lucky Strike. $2.00

Schrock's Orchid. A new introduction that should prove desirable. The flowers are an attractive shade of silver lilac with a hint of pink. They are carried on strong stiff stems and are excellent shippers. The fragrance is particularly notable. $2.00

Other worth while newer introductions (see catalog for descriptions).

EARLY OR WINTER FLOWERING Cuprocide treatment if desired

The reports we have received on the Sweet Pea seed which we supplied last season, were most gratifying. We will again furnish the same high grade strains that gave such uniformly good results last season.
